Author / Publisher Biography:

Michael E. Chalberg is pastor and cofounder of Shepherd's Care Ministries home-based in Gilbert, Arizona. He offers 3 primary areas of ministry; Pastoral Counseling & Mentoring over the Internet and privately; Christian Renewal as an Intentional-Interim Pastor & Consultant; and building Community Outreaches in and out of the church. He has worked in the interim ministry for 23 years offering renewal and healing to troubled communities of faith, as a pastor/consultant using conflict resolution, leadership training, restoration of Biblical Disciplines, instruction in spiritual warfare and deliverance ministry, and establishing prayer teams, as the foundation for all church ministries to support a laity-empowered church for ministering to the broken-hearted of the world. He has been in ministry for 42 years.

The past 25 years he has specialized in pastoral counseling to survivors of ritual abuse; Clergy Abuse, sexual abuse, Satanic Ritual Abuse, Human Trafficking of Minors and other abuses like incest, pornography and Domestic Violence, resulting in Post Traumatic Stress Disorder, Dissociative Identity Disorder (a.k.a. MPD) and other trauma induced issues in adults and children. Some of his clients within the Oakland Diocese gave permission to publish their spiritual journeys of healing with him, in the first books of a series entitled, "Shattered People: Journeys to: Joy (2003) Love (2005) with Hope & Peace" to follow. Their stories include his commentary as counselor, pastor, friend and fellow traveler. This ministry includes SCPublishing to provide educational information to survivors and those who are care-givers for them.

He began this free counseling service as an extension of the counseling ministry in 2003, to include an Internet based chat-room two nights a week reaching an international audience in need of counseling for ritual abuse. Here, both survivors of ritual abuse and the people who care for them, can come together for the soul purpose of learning about God's methods of spiritual healing, in the midst of spiritual warfare, alongside of the SCCM staff and fellow survivors on their healing journeys. He provides a 'virtual' church office atmosphere. Topics discussed include personal histories and experiences in the healing process, spiritual warfare, deliverance ministry and the development of spiritual gifts for survival. Private counseling is given as well via emails, private chat rooms, phone and video conferencing.

He moved his ministries to Arizona in 2010 to create Starbright Foundation Inc. with partners in ministry to focus on children/minors caught up in human sex trafficking, by providing free support for rescues, protection, counseling and education to heal the traumas they have endured. SFI expanded to include training of law enforcement, first responders, school systems, childcare workers, foster parents, churches, families and social groups... anyone who will listen about how to get involved in intervention and prevention of this criminal industry... for the innocent victims who can't speak for themselves.

He and his wife, Carol (SCM cofounder), are graduates of Fuller Theological Seminary, Pasadena, California. He has a Master of Divinity in Pastoral Care and Counseling while Carol has a Master of Arts in Theology. He is a member of the Association of Traumatic Stress Specialists (ATSS) and trained as a responder for group crisis intervention and critical incident stress management to rescue workers and survivors of disasters. He is a member of the American Association of Christian Counselors (ACSS), the International Critical Incident Stress Foundation, Inc. (ICISF), Christian Association for Psychological Studies (CAPS), and Titus Task Force International (TTFI - retired).

From the Author:

I have two primary audiences that I want to help heal; whole communities of families broken by severe abuse of varying types - including clergy abuse & SRA, which can assault a community for generations, especially the individual survivors as all are in need of healing in their relationship with God. The professionals who treat them: counselors, pastors, priests, psychologists, laity and family members who offer care and assistance in their recovery, can receive direct assistance. My goal is to help clergy, laity and Christian professionals learn how to enter the arena of deep spiritual warfare existing around anyone affected by ritual abuse...particularly SRA, and how to do so without fear of entering these spiritual arenas many believe they are not 'gifted' to enter.

I write about the truth of people's relationship to God, how it is broken by abuse, and the healing process needed to rebuild that relationship. As God reveals His methods of healing using human relationships... traditional and historical concepts of God are challenged. People can learn how living out God's unconditional love in broken relationships will rarely leave them in a comfortable 'Christian' environment without daily challenges. How evil intervenes in our lives to disrupt our relationship with God is also clearly presented in practical examples of its subtle ways of keeping Christians unaware of the spiritual battles raging around us and in us inside the church. I am available for speaking and teaching on the subjects covered in these books to survivor groups, churches and schools.

Additional Reviews of both published books:

BookWireReview.com January 31, 2005 – Journeys to Joy – Book One

"Shattered People" is a magnificent account of the ability of God's spiritual healing powers in restoring individuals who have suffered a lifetime of abuse. These incredible true stories of individuals suffering from Multiple Personality Disorder, portrays their struggle of finding hope and healing through their search for God. It reveals God's redeeming love and power, and His ability to heal and give hope to people engulfed by their tragedy and grief. The book depicts His desire for people to love one another in this world and His ability to conquer forces of evil that attempt to harm and hinder that love.

Michael E. Chalberg has weighed a variety of psychological perspectives and biases that are a part of the troubled lives of these people. The journeys of these individuals assert the power and capability of God's love over evil practices and spread a message of hope to all those who feel unable to explore what it means to be a Christian. Chalberg, who is a pastor, has laced the book with quotes from the Bible. This book is disturbing, poignant, powerful and a treasury of spiritual experiences.

Dr. Lindsay Malcolm, April 27, 2003 – Journeys to Joy – Book One

"Shattered People" brings home the spiritual and relational devastation of lives torn by emotional, physical, sexual and spiritual abuse. It is a magnificent exposition of the spiritual dimensions of mental health. This is an amazing story of the healing power of Jesus Christ in mending the unmendable and using the brokenness of one willing servant to bring hope to a multitude. It speaks eloquently of the compassion that Jesus has for the wounded and His ability to bring wholeness, as He defines it, in the midst of tragedy and pain. It invites one on a roller coaster journey, from gut-wrenching horror to hilarious laughter, but it is primarily a message of hope and encouragement to all who feel broken. The story is powerful and gripping, painful and delightful; and as a true story will challenge the reader to live up to all it means to call one self a Christian.

Dr. Lindsay Malcolm, February 12, 2005 – Journeys to Love - Book Two

In his first book, Shattered People: Journeys to Joy, Michael Chalberg began the amazing true story of one woman's journey out of darkness. Now, in this sequel, he continues to chronicle the lives of the personalities locked in Maria's body, as they search for healing and meaning in a world that does not accept them. One's perspective on the meaning of suffering cannot remain unchanged after reading this book.

Journeys to Love lays open the emotional, physical and spiritual reality of Maria's personalities, and their conflicts both internally and externally. Maria's fight to save her marriage – against all that seems reasonable – will challenge one's concepts of commitment; her innocent attempts to involve a wealthy suburban church in serving the poor will nourish the soul.

Mariann's quest to be seen and accepted for who she is will wrench the heart; her abilities to see into the spirit-world will alter one's perception of what is real; her passion to worship Jesus with unfettered love will convict the heart. As the System battles the physical effects of chemotherapy, they continue their spiritual battle as well against forces that would draw parts back into the Santeria and hinder the healing that Jesus is bringing to their lives. Throughout, one is called to rethink both what it means to be a Christian and who we are as individual souls.

Dr. Joe Johnson, Grace Lutheran Church, Huntington Beach, CA – May 2005

Journeys to Love is for every kind of reader. The continuing history of Maria, diagnosed with Multiple Personality Disorder, provides a detailed study of a client whose personalities mature separately and learn to pull together through caring counsel and trusting relationships with Pastor Chalberg and his team. Maria endures a long journey of pain...never pretending to be strong, yet exhibiting strength as all personalities cooperate to build health, career and relationships.

On another level, this book is a parable of truth, which instructs and challenges the individual, family groups and even the church. One can relate as various personalities sacrifice their own preferences for the sake of wholeness and unity. There is powerful wisdom about respect in relationships and loving God in a passionate, but practical way.

Finally, it is a good story: full of unthinkable struggle, tenacious love, and unexpected humor. It illustrates Jesus' words: "Beware that you don't despise a single one of these little ones. For I tell you that their angels in heaven are always beholding the face of My Father." (Matthew 18:10)

BookWire Review – May 17, 2005 – Journeys to Love: Book Two

Michael E. Chalberg's "Shattered People: Journeys to Love" is the second book in a series that deals with how a pastor helped victims of drug abuse, multiple personality disorder, alcoholism, clergy abuse, sexual abuse and Satanism. Chalberg started a ten-year program to help such victims. This book describes the third, fourth and fifth year in the program. In this book Chalberg describes how victims are misunderstood by almost everyone and how they slowly realize the infinite love of God and move on to a better life.

Chalberg puts forth pertinent questions regarding human civilization: Are the peoples' misdeeds a reflection of the society that they are living in? Are people capable of living in a society that promotes, even encourages, such offenses as drug abuse and alcoholism? Is the Church doing enough to negate these disturbing influences of society upon people? These questions do not have easy answers and Chalberg does not attempt to answer them. However, his actions, as they are portrayed in the book, demonstrate God's infinite love for all people and his belief that with adequate support, people are capable of living in an evil world. These actions speak louder than any words possibly could.

The book tells the stories of people who have experienced the horrors of this world and were scarred by the experience. However, these victims dare to fight the problems created by society. Though at the end of the book the victims have not yet emerged victorious in their quest, the book still confirms that people are capable of facing all their difficulties if they believe in God. As a member of the Protestant Church, Chalberg critiques what he perceives as a lack of a support system in the Catholic Church. However, this criticism is a minor point in the book in comparison to the selfless service in the name of Christianity that is being given to these shattered people. Chalberg's book is an inspiration to all.

Shattered People series: Journeys to Joy and Journeys to Love

These books are quite the emotional ride. Pastor Chalberg demonstrates courage and dedication to shine light into some of life's darkest corners. Bound to create controversy, these are stories of pain and despair; rebirth and the struggle to find love and joy in a world of confusion and suffering. We read of the individual journeys which lead to spiritual healing through God's mercy, which challenge, and perhaps changes our ideas of our spirituality before God.

I believe this is Pastor Chalberg's greatest intent. He wants to challenge us with self-reflection of our own spirituality, through understanding the difficulties we witness in other people's lives. For this exact reason, these books are heavy with emotion and involved reading. They will definitely change the way you perceive others, the way you perceive yourself and the way you perceive your relationship with Jesus Christ.
